PASSING A CENSUS BILL.

A BIG DAY IN THE ONYX SENATE CHAMBLE IN ALBANY.

As Amended Enumeration Bill Presented by Senator Canter and Put on its Passage-Three Republican Senators, Erwin, O'Connor, and Saxton, Refused to Vote on the Last Call, and they were Declared to Contempt-Their Cases Referred to the Judielary Committee for Purther Action.

ALBANY, Jan. 14.-This is the biggest day that the yellow onyx walls of the chamber of the Senate of the State of New York ever saw. At last the Republican Senators went on their long-threatened strike. They were not well organized, and they did not hold together. The strike was a fizzle, and its only practical result is the suspension of three Republican Senators and the institution of contempt proceedings against them. The Enumeration bill passed by a party vote after a long debate. thout any previous question or limit to the discussion. It was a test of Lieut.-Gov. Sheehan's power as a presiding officer, and he met the requirements admirably. Though the gavel was broken he did not lose his temper once, but conducted the proceedings with dig-nity and precision. The only tempers lost were on the floor, and the only turbulence was among the Republican Senators.

Following the programme of the session, as printed several weeks ago in THE SUN, the amourats called up the Enumeration bill as the first matter to be considered. They in tended to stay in session until the bill was passed, and in case the Republican Senators wlined to vote or absented themselves, to unseat enough Republicans to give the Demograts the three-fifths vote, or twenty Senators. messary to have present in order to pass any bill making an appropriation of money from the State Treasury. The evidence in the four contests has not all been heard, but the Democrats thought that it would be sufficient justification to the poople of the State for their action should the Republicans absent themselves. The Democrats had 17 votes, or enough to pass bills, as only a majority of the thirty-two Senators are required for that, but the Constitution requires the presence of twenty Senators when appropriation bills are passed. The Democrats were determined that they would have twenty Senators present if they had to unseat three more Republicana. The Republicans knew of this determination, and, with the exception of three of them who are the benefit of the opening prayer. Senator McClelland asked that the Senate discharge the committee from further consideration of the Enumeration bill. A meeting of the committee had been called for the early morning before the session, but it was not held as the Democrats preferred to agree to the terms of the bill among themselves. The committee was discharged by a party vota, and the bill was ordered to a third reading. It was then in the shape in which it was originally introeed on the first day of the session.

When the bill was put on its final passage Senator McClelland offered as a substitute the commendations made in THE SUN last Friday, and which met with the approval of Gov. Plower, Secretary Rice, and the other Demoeratic leaders. The amendments are such as will make the census more thorough, and pro-vide for the revision and correction of inaccu-

"The Constitution imposes an obligation on the Legislature." replied Senator Cantor. "It is the duty of the Legislature to provide promptly for an enumeration and notto add to the beyon years dolay."

"Last year when the Seenate was Republican you carried an enumeration bill around in your pecket the whole session," retorted Senator Lautor.

Senator Erwis imade an attack on Tammany Hall in connection with the enumeration, to which Senator McMalhon replied:

"Your candidate for Gevernor last fall made his campaign on what he called the striped iniquity of Fourteenth street. The people made their nawwir to these charges then."

Senator McCleilland said that the bill was not political in any sense, but that it was approved by the Democracy of the State."

"You are the lonly relic of the old State Democracy left in this body," said Senator Zerubbabel Erwin to Senator McCleiland. "You are the only Iriend Grover Cleveland has here."

Several Republican Senators made appeals to the Democrats not to act hastily on the innumeration bill, but to postpone its consideration until next week. They said that the people of the State would punish the Democratic party, to stay their hands and rest themselves awhile.

"I have no interest in the Democratic party," said Senator O'Connor to his Republican colleagues, "I don't care whether they conduct themselves properly or not. I hope that they will be utterly annihilated and destroyed, and I think we should encourage their madness. I don't love the Democrate nam. They have already seated two Se nators in this body in violation of the gesicals of the Court of Appeals. I am free to say that I did not helieve that Mr. Sherwood was eligible, and had he been admitted to this body? I should have veted to refor the matter again to the people of this distict, and they could refer have seated in his place Mr. Walker, who confessedly did not have a majority by 17,000 votes. Benator Cantor raised the point of order that Senator O'Connor was not talking about the Enumeration bill.

The Lioutenant-Governor decided against Benator Cantor's point of order, and said that he saw no reason why the Republicans should not have full latitude in the discussion.

Benator O'Connor continued: "The Democrats seated a man in the Dutchess county district who was not elected. They hold the majority of this body now by their unrighteous acks." acts.

Benator Cantor said that it appeared in the syidence that the Republican candidate got his apparent majority by bribery and corruption, and that the Board of Canvassers had so decided.

tion, and that the Board of Canvassers had so decided.

"How is this money to be paid out?" asked Benator Erwin.

"Not by the Senator from St. Lawrence county," replied Senator Cantor. "The people are not disbursing their money in that way. The Senator knows very well that his county gets back two dollars for every one it puts in the State Treasury."

The debate lasted for several hours, and died of itself. No previous question was moved. The Lacutanant-Governor let everybody talk who wanted to. In order to save time few Democrate spoke. The roll was then called. All the Democrate voted aye, making 17 votes, enough to pass the bill. The Rev. Senator Edwards voted no. Derby and Richardson, two of the Republicans whose seats are contested, voted no. The bill was passed. The other Republican Senators did not at first vote. They sat in their seats and declined to answer to their names.

Lisut-Gov. Sheehan said: "According to their names.

The Clerk called the roll of the Republican Benators who had not voted. Senator Coggeshall was the first name on the roll.

"I am not prepared to vote," said Senator Coggeshall. "I want time to amend this bill, and I ask to be excused from voting."

as to whether Senator Coggeshall should be

The Benate will have to take action when Lieutenant-Governor.

Benator Emerson voted no. Benator Erwin came next.

"I object to being confined to no or yes."
Senator Erwin growled as he stood up and shook his fist at the Democratic majority and contorted his features. "I decline to vote against this bill, and I do not know enough about its somtents to vote for it. I ask to be

"Senator Erwin, it is your duty to comply with the rules of this body."

The Lieutenant-Governor pounded The Lieutenant-Governor pounded with the savel until it snapped.

"Under what authority do you catechize me?" Senator Erwin continued. "You have passed your bill; you have enough votes here without mine. I wanted you to adopt rules, and you wouldn't. You have got no rules senator O'Connor's name came next. He Benator O'Connor's name came next. He said:

"I refuse to vote. I am in favor of the ptinciple of this bill, but I want to know its defails. You can't hurry me up this way. I ask to be axeused from voting.

The Senate refused to excuse Senator O'Connor, and the Lieutenant-Governor said:

"Senator O'Connor refuses to obey the Chair and this House, and it will be the duty of the Senate to take action."

Senator Saxton was the next name. He refused to vote. Senator Smith came next. Several of the Republican Senators had already weakened, and two more than a sufficient number of votes had already been cast. The Republicans had intended to declike to vote in a body, but the Senators whose seits are contested feared that they would be promptly turned out if they did not vote, and they voted "No." thus senashing the Republican programme. Senator Smith explained that he weakened because he was overfidden and downtrodden by the Chair and the Democratio majority.

The Clerk then announced the result—seventeen, all Democrats, in the affirmative, and six Republicans and the Rev. Senator R dwards in the negative. This left four Republicans present and not voting. The bill was sassed and goes to the assembly for concurrents.

The Democratic Senators and the Lieutenant-Governor consulted for a few migutes, and then Senator Cantor, as Democratic eader, returning to his place on the floor, said that it was his unpleasant duty to offer a resolution to some left the Senators to respect the rules of the Senate. He offered a resolutior that the Senators who were in their seats and had declined to vote be declared in contempt, and that the matter be referred to the Committee on Judiciary for further action.

Benator Coggeshall, the first of the four Senators who had struck, got upand explained that be did not know that the rules had been adopted, and that if he had known that the rules had been adopted he would win great reluckance have voted no.

On motion of Senator Cantor, Senator Coggeshall's name was then stricken from the list of the Senators in contempt, and the list was Senators. Zerubabel Erwin, O'Connor, and Saxton, all that were left out of the furtoen presumably defiant Republicans.

This was a new experience for Senaor Erwin. He has been keep yield. He had hopes that the Licutenant-tovernor would follow the prevent hought that the Democrats would take the attitude they did. Senator McCarren made a facetious speech in bad taste. He said: "I lament the prospect of the spectacle of seeing Senator Frwin in jail. I have known him for years. I have served with him in successive legislatures, and nothing but my sense of duty impols me to vote to punish him for contempt."

Kenators O'Connor and Saxton were also excused.

Senators O'Connor and Saxton were also excused.

The vote was 17 to 0, all the Democrats voting in the affirmative.

The Lieutenant-Governor then said: "The Clerk will omit the names of the Senators in contempt from the roll."

"By what authority do you strike their names from the roll?" asked Senator Van Gorder.

"By the authority of Parliamentary law as eld as the ages itself," replied the Lieutenant-Governor.

What will be done with these Senators will not be determined until next week. The Senate has the power to send them to the Albany county juil for the rest of the session of the Legislature and to exped them.

a pleasant-looking woman, who would hardly be suspected of placing helpless infants out on the streets in severe snow or rain storms to take their chances of being pleked up and cared for.

The frequency with which abandoned children have been nicked up in the streets on Jersey City Heights in the past two or three months caused the police to keep a sharplookout. On Jan. 5, about 3 o'clock in the morning. Policeman Lomansey found an infant lying near a fence in Prospect street, near Palisade avenue. Snow was falling and the child was nearly covered with it. The policeman took the infant to Christ Hospital. Its hands and feet were frozen, and the next day it was removed to the almshouse at Snake Hill. Policeman Daniel Lee, who had been directed to watch Mra Breitschwert, reported that he had seen her leave her house late on the night of Jan. 4. She wore a long uister and had her hands inside it. He thought she carried a bundle under the ulster. He followed her as far as Boorsem avenue and then went back and reported at the station house. When he returned to his post he met the woman returning home. She had no bundle then and her hands were outside of her ulster.

When Mra Breitschwert was arrested she admitted that she had had the baby in her care. She said she got it from Dr. Reilly at the College of Midwilery. Forty-seventh street and Eighth arenue, New York, and that she gave it to a woman at 310 Nelson avenue, who wanted to adopt it. Detective McNally found a vacant lot at that number. When the midwile was confronted with this fact she said she could not remember the woman's name nor where she lived.

Warden Ryan of the almshouse brought the abandoned infant into court yesterday. Soveral well-dressed women were in the court room and seemed to take an interest in the haby. Its hands and feet showed evidence of having been frozen. Several women witnesses identified the baby as one that had been in Mrs. Breitschwert' in $1,000 bail. The ball was furnished and she was released.

THE WESTMINSTER CONFESSION.

Prolonged Discussion in the Committee of The committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly, which is engaged in the work of Engaged as Wattress at $3 a Weck, Then sion, met again yesterday and bald a long sesthe exception of Drs. Leftwich Nichols, and Alexander were present. Senator McMillan arrived early in the course of the morning session.

The committee spent the whole of the day, with the exception of the closing half hour. discussing the preterition clause in the Confession, and practically nothing was accomplished, as the matter was further referred to committee of five. The clause which was a committee of five. The clause which was under consideration, and which is the most important one in the Confession in view of the revision, and the one on which the majority of the presbyteries have gone to pieces is section to chapter 3. It states, after arranging the welfare of the elect that "The rest of mankind God was pleased to pass by and to ordain them to dishonor and wrath for their sin, to the praise of His glorious justice." This was amended by the original Committee on Revision so as to read that God was pleased "not to elect unto everlasting life, but to ordain them." &c. This amendment has far from met the desires of many presbyteries, who want, in effect, to leave this clause out altogether.

The committee yesterday spent the whole day discussing and suggesting how this could or should be treated, and a very great many propositions were submitted which would "Bmooth down the rugged text to ears polite, and snugly keep damnation out of sight." Finsily it was decided to refer the whole mater, with all the suggestions made by the various presbyteries, and by the committee yesterday, to a committee of fire, which is to report a final proposition to-day. But this proposition itself will have to be again considered, and the fate of this clause may not be settled for some considerable time. The committee is made up of Dr. Hierric, Dr. Patton, Dr. Herrick Johnson. Mr. William Ernst, and Judge Alfred Hand.

The proposition that was mest considered yesterday was to omit the words "not to elect to everlasting life," and the word "them," which would make the clause read. "The rest of mankind God was pleased " to ordain to dishoner and wrath for their sin."

THE FAT MAN'S CLUB. It Has Little Induence Among Phode Island

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 14 .- It is expected that the Demograts will make the usual campaign of-forts to carry the State, both in April and No vember, but Republicans have no fear of the issues of 1888. Even the sanguine Mills was able to recognize then that the State was hopeless on the tariff line, and it is even less free trade now than four years ago. If the Democrats are to have any chance in Rhode Island they will have to avoid the tariff. an issue kept prominent only by two or three issue kept prominent only by two or three Mugwump manufacturers, who have imbibed English ideas both of tariff and wages, and have vainly endeavored to introduce both in lithode Island.

As to candidates, the rank and file of the Democracy would certainly be true to any national nominee representing substantial Democratic principles. There is really no demand for any one man. The Cleveland cult is confined to a few, known colloquially as the Fat Man's Club. They have but little influence, and count at the poils for no more than their individual votes. The party at large is for the man most likely to win.

PATERSON'S GREAT PROBLEM.

Shall It be a Statue of Alexander Hamilton or Billy Patterson, or Somebody Else !

There is trouble in Paterson. Next year will be the contennial of the town's birth, and they gests that it be Alexander Hamilton's. The people—that is, some of the people—say.
"Who the devil is Alexander Hamilton?" The committee suggests Rogers, the founder of the locomotive industry. The people-many of them-say, "What's the matter with John The committee suggests Ryles, the builder of the first silk mill. The people-all of them this time-laugh and say. mit Billy Patterson?" The committee says, Well, we'll be hanged." or words to that effect: "what in blazes do you people want?" And that's how the matter stands.

All the candidates have their good points, but the trouble is, there are drawbacks in each and a good man, and what is more, he founded case. Alexander Hamilton was a great man and a good man, and what is more, he founded Paterson. But what's the good of erecting a statue of a man when some of the people whom you ask to help pay for it say. "Who the devil is he, any way?"

There are a great many foreigners in Paterson who will undoubtedly join in the candy and peanut part of the centennial celebration with great gusto, but when it comes to the matter of statues they don't take hold with enthusiasm. And as for honoring the founder of the town, there are those among the foreigners who firmly believe that Paterson was the place where the late lamented Billy was struck, and that the town was ohristened in honor of the event. And after all, when you look at the matter fairly and squarely, why not erect a statue to William Patterson? None has as yet been erected to his memory, though, to be sure, his name will live forever in the cloud of mystery that surrounds the man who struck him.

When some one suggested Mr. Regers of locomotive fame, this objection was raised:

"Old man Rogers has made enough money out of this blooming town to erect his own statue. Why should we blow in our hardearned money on him? Let him have a statue by all means, if he wants one, but let him pay for it."

The same objection was made to Mr. Ryles of slik fame. Of course there are a great many whose statue is erected. But those who are giving their attention to the matter are in the greatest quandary of their lives.

Miss Buss says she was kept in the room until Tuesday, when, with the assistance of one of the other waitresses, she escaped. She returned to her lodgings at 117 Henry street, and learned that Greenwald had taken her trunk away, saying she had obtained a good situation at 0 Forsyth street.

Cors Cures for Horses,

The disagreement between Park Commissioners Gallup and Dana on Wednesday con-cerning the curability of corns on horses' feet has attracted considerable attention from horsemen. A number of letters were received at the offices of the Park Department yesterday in which the subject of corns was treated. Nearly every letter agreed with Mr. Dana, who asserted that the ailment could be cured, and who objected to selling the alling horses of the department at a sucrifice. The letters contained all sorts of instructions for the treatment of the corns, and soveral of them spoke highly of certain lotions and cintments which the writers evidently had a pecuniary interest in. One of the writers declares that the corns can be cured by removing the shoes and putting the horses out to grass. norsemen. A number of letters were received

It Brought on Profuse Perspiration-The Pa-tient Abis to Come Bown and Sweer Of. A very slender man with a pale, anxious face called on President Barker of the Tax Department on Wednesday and showed a notice he had received charging him with being possessed of $5,000 worth of personal prop-'That's all wrong," said the slender man,

"I couldn't pay that amount of money in hundred years. Why. I'm only a cierk, and my salary is only $1,200 s year. I live in a hundred years. Why. I'm only a clerk, and my salary is only $1,200 s year. I live in a plainly furnished flat, and the personal property I've got isn't worth $500."

"Well, you can swear it off," said Mr. Barker, "That's better than trying to pay," replied the slender man.

He took the necessary oath, and Mr. Barker turned again to his deek.

The slender man walked slowly to the door, and then returning said in a faitering way:
"I guess I'd better tell you all and make a clean breast of the whole business."

That's right," said Mr. Barker encouragingly, and he settled himself to listen.

I had been slek for over a month," said the slender man, with his eves cast down, and my doctor did not seem to be able to help me, i had the grip, a very hard fever, and a compression on the chest that made it difficult for me to breathe. The day before I received this motice the doctor shook his head, and said I was a very sick man. When the notice came it frightened me very much, and worried my wife almost to death. I tossed about for several hours, and soon began to perspire very violantly. This kept up all night and in the morning I was very weak. But I felt better, I could breathe without trouble, and my head was clear. The fever had passed away. When the doctor came he was very much surprised, and asked me what I had been doing. I showed him the tax notice, and he laughed. Since then I have been gaining strength every day."
